ABOUT THE COMPOSER

Born in Kyoto, Japan, Yukiko Nishimura began studying music on her own initiative at an early age. She started taking piano lessons at the age of four and began learning composition at eight. After graduating from Tokyo University of the Arts with a major in music theory and composition, she continued her studies at the University of Miami in Florida and the Manhattan School of Music in New York.

She has been commissioned to write works by performers, ensembles, and organizations. Her projects include composing music for Edison's Frankenstein (1910), the first silent horror film in American cinema history, theatrical projects, and collaborations with such as Noh theater, a traditional form of Japanese drama.

Yukiko studied composition with Atsutada Otaka, Alfred Reed, Richard Danielpour, and Giampaolo Bracali, and piano with Ivan Davis and Sara Davis Buechner.

LEAFY SONG

"Leafy Song" drifts like a gentle breeze through sunlit leaves. Built upon a simple, flowing melody, often shaped by half notes, it glides forward as soft harmonies blossom around it. A single line of melody, tenderly supported by warm, vertical harmony, sways unhurried and unforced, as if nature itself were humming a quiet song carried on the wind.

The rhythmic simplicity of the String parts allows educators to focus on developing fundamental musicianship skills, such as tone, bow control, and ensemble awareness. The optional Piano and Percussion parts add considerable depth and texture, enhancing both rehearsals and performance, and providing students with the opportunity to explore richer harmonic support.
